Coaching case study

Gabriel Vick | Actor | London

What did you want to achieve through coaching?

When I met Steve, I had no job, I was depressed, and I saw no future for my life. Initially I thought I was coming to him looking for a career change; this was because I had lost touch with my principles.

“Steve helped me focus back on my own essence and what I am here on this planet to do... it has led to the fulfilment of the dreams that I had always imagined coming true – and with a six figure salary to boot!”

In what ways has the coaching achieved your vision?

Steve helped me focus back on my own essence and what I am here on this planet to do. I made the decision to stay in my career surer than ever that it was right for me. Three or four months after our work together, I actively applied myself towards finding opportunities for my career which put my destiny in my own hands.

As I was in this mode of thinking I both recognised the opportunity for the job of my lifetime (playing the lead role as Mrs Doubtfire in the West End) but then also actively pursued it. I got the job and it has led to the fulfilment of the dreams that I had always imagined coming true - and with a six figure salary to boot!

If you don't think that is worth the initial small outlay for seeing Steve then you are not sane!
